George Pla Appointed to Centinela-Freeman Board

George L. Pla, President and CEO of Cordoba Corporation, was appointed as a member of the Governing Board of Centinela Freeman Health System. Pla's appointment became effective in November 2005, and he will serve a three year term on the Board.

"I am excited to work with Centinela Freeman to deliver the highest quality health services to the communities they serve," said Pla. Centinela CEO Mike Rembis was equally optimistic, adding, "The addition of Mr. Pla to the Governing Board is in step with our ongoing commitment of providing local ownership and management for Centinela Freeman. I am sure that Mr. Pla will be an asset to our team."

George Pla has served as President and CEO of Cordoba Corporation since he founded the company in 1983. Much like Centinela Freeman, he remains dedicated to civic leadership in the surrounding community. He is a member of the Board of Regents of Loyola Marymount University. He is a Presidential Associate at the University of Southern California and co-founder of the university's Mexican American Alumni Association. He is the Treasurer and Chairman of the Budget and Finance Committee for Western States at the American Heart Association. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the California Science Center Foundation and helped secure funds for an ambitious $140 million expansion project which will make the Science Center the largest of its kind in the Western United States.

Centinela Freeman Regional Medical Center was established by local hospital administrators, physicians and community leaders in 2004 to provide the community with locally owned and operated health care services. The Health System owns and operates Centinela Freeman Regional Medical Center; Centinela campus, Daniel Freeman campus and Marina campus, along with the Centinela Airport Medical Clinic. The hospitals offer a broad range of medical programs in addition to orthopedic services, and are also the official hospital of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Lakers, Sparks, Clippers, Avengers and Galaxy.
